April 27th, 2025 – Second Sunday of Easter

Pope Francis (1936-2025): For your reflections this week as we mourn the passing of the Bishop of Rome, Pope Francis.

Pope Francis on Compassion: "We must restore hope to young people, help the old, be open to the future, and spread love. Be poor among the poor. We need to include the excluded and preach peace."

Pope Francis on the Marginalized: "Openness to God makes us open towards the marginalized of this world and gives us the courage to leave the confines of our own security and comfort to become bruised, hurting and dirty as we joyfully approach the suffering other in a spirit of solidarity."

Pope Francis on Refugees: "The faith we proclaim makes us see God present in all those situations where we think he is absent... He is present in the unwelcomed visitor, often unrecognizable, who walks through our cities and our neighborhoods, who travels on our buses and knocks on our doors."

Pope Francis on the Environment: "Creation is not a property, which we can rule over at will; or, even less, is the property of only a few: Creation is a gift, it is a wonderful gift that God has given to us, so that we care for it and we use it for the benefit of all, always with great respect and gratitude."

In a recent letter from the Office of the Bishop, Bishop Riesbeck has extended an invitation to attend a Memorial Mass for Pope Francis at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception on Tuesday, April 29th at 7pm. Copies of the Bishop's Letter are available in the lobby of the church.

Fr. Bill's Easter Message 2025

I have often heard 'elders' among us speak the following phrases (or something like them) with a deep confidence:

"Eventually things change for the better."

"This will get better."

"Hope springs eternal."

I have believed and trusted these words because they were coming from folks who have been on life's journey a longer and sometimes a much longer time than myself and have experienced much challenge, pain, loss and even devastation. Yet they were hopeful.

For the followers of Jesus, His crucifixion and death was devastating. It left them empty, at a loss, frightened and ashamed of their lack of courage and faithfulness. It also left them desiring and hoping for things to get better and for a 'hope that springs eternal'.

This is exactly what happened. The Easter Gospel stories tell us they came to experience that the crucifixion and death of Jesus was not his end. He had Risen and came to all of them as 'The Risen Christ'. He breathed on them and spoke hope and renewal into their lives.

They were changed! They found that they had a NEW AND DEEPER courage and peace, and that Hope Sprang Eternal in them. This is what came to be known as Easter!

Today, Jesus, the Risen Christ continues to seek us out as individuals and in communities and brings change for the better in us and through us and in others and through others. Easter has been in our lives from the time we were created. It looks like this:

Where we have been afraid, we have found courage!

When we have been apathetic, we have sought awareness and have become concerned and compassionate!

When we have been wounded we have found healing!

Where we have so often left it to others to speak out, to act and to change things, we have found ourselves passionate, concerned and involved with others in being that change for the better.

All of this we call Easter! If we reflect on it in this way, we see the great abundance of Easter grace in our world and we also see where Easter grace is needed. May we all be willing to bring it there because we have Easter – the Risen Christ in us....all of us! What amazing Good News! Alleluia!

Our Sacred Stories
Resurrection: The Fire in Our Hearts
(Fr. John Jennings)

Just remember in the winter, far beneath the bitter snow, lies the seed that with the sun's love, in the spring becomes the rose.

This is the last stanza of the song "The Rose" sung by Bette Midler in the 1979 movie of the same name. The movie recounts the life of singer Janis Joplin who died tragically at the age of 27. In so many ways, this song captures the core of Joplin's life and what energized her.

Ron Rolheiser in "Holy Longing" cites Joplin along with Princess Diana and Mother Theresa as examples of persons who had the fire of great energy within them. Each of them handled this fire differently. In Joplin's case unfortunately, the fire was not controlled or channeled. But that is not to deny that Janis Joplin like the other two was filled with "fire".

For Rolheiser, this fire is what burns in our hearts as life-giving love. It is what drives our desires in life and forms what we would call our spirituality. As such it is part of God's gift to us all. It rests in the heart of every human being whether we recognize it or not.

In so many ways this little piece of Joplin's music helps us to understand our Easter experience as disciples of Jesus the Christ. The many challenges that we face in our world and personally as well can create a discouraging malaise for us. This darkness or coldness of our lives is indeed like a winter for us. We can see that we are affected by a world that's marked by violence and injustice, a world where the most vulnerable and helpless suffer and the strong even unwittingly, dominate.

In such a world, the Easter event, provides us with a window of hope. The wonder of what we have come to speak of as the Paschal Mystery is our hope. In our tradition "Mystery" always refers to some truth of our faith that is so great that we can never exhaust what it means. Such truths of faith are so life-giving and so connected to our loving relationship with God that they are foundational to our hope for both our world and ourselves.

Easter is all about the Paschal Mystery, the life, death and resurrection of Jesus with the ultimate gift of God's spirit to dwelling in our midst. For Christians, it is the resurrection of Jesus that ignites the fire in our hearts and drives our faith and life. The disciples who were filled with fear after the crucifixion, discovered this fire in the time that followed. It drove them to a new vision and energized them to head out with what they saw as Good News for life.

In the Sundays after Easter, we see this again and again. In readings from John and from Luke the fearful, confused and dismayed women and men among Jesus's disciples see their lives turned around. At first filled with doubts that Thomas expresses this Sunday (John 20:19-31) and marked by the disbelief that appears in all of them in the stories of John and Luke, they discover a new spirit among them. This fire of the spirit will lead them out into the world as new light in the darkness.

For them and for us the resurrection was not simply a single event in the life of Jesus. It is the core of our Christian faith. Our God is a life-giving God whose love drives us. The wonder or miracle of Jesus's resurrection was not a one-time event or only for Jesus. It is a miracle for us all and for our world. As wounded and broken as we and our world may be, we are also raised up. Resurrection happens, in every expression of God's love in our world, in all humanity and all creation. Through the Paschal Mystery, every single human being has this seed of new life planted within us. May the risen life that we hold in our hearts be the fire that brings hope and life to our world in every place and time.
